

I support RM-10867 in general. The changes I would like to this is that Tech and Tech+ holders would have to take and pass the General test. I would in this view not grandfather Techs or Tech+ to General.

I also desire with the removal of the code requirement for General that the test question be rewritten to truly test technical ability. If the amateur is to provide trained and capable Radio technical and operator the test should insure this is a true statement. thank you